

TRADER

DUTIES

- The trader works on a family of fixed income, equity, derivative and complex derivative products.
- He/she performs financial transactions on so-called vanilla and structured derivative products on behalf of clients or for the bank's own account.
- He/she is responsible for analyzing the transaction, coming up with a trading price, executing the transaction and managing the portfolio's dynamic risks to optimize the financial results.
- He/she participates in the efforts to develop the product line and makes trading decisions within the risk limits authorized by the trading plan. He/she also provides price listings for clients through sales and optimizes portfolio management financial results.