Graines de pilotes, Incredible India and Mission Burkina are the winners of the C.A.M.P.U.S. Awards 2017

For the sixth C.A.M.P.U.S. Awards, Natixis rewarded a total of 10 community-minded student projects falling into three categories: socio-cultural, socio-sports and sustainable development.

The C.A.M.P.U.S. Awards provide a unique opportunity to reward the diversity of projects, the originality of initiatives and the involvement of students.

This year, twenty-two projects submitted by students from top business schools, engineering schools and universities were shortlisted.

The juries singled out ten projects:

The prizes awarded to projects in the social and cultural domain were:

- 1st prize: €5,000. Incredible India from Kedge Business School Bordeaux. The goal of the association is the reintegration of young Indian girls victims of violence by providing them psychological support and training.
- 2nd prize: €3,000. L'ombre et la plume from the EDHEC business school Bordeaux. Students from this association provide support to young inmates and assist them with their reintegration, specifically via the publication of a guide.
- 3rd prize: €1,500. Cap'art from IESEG. The association offers arts practice to young people suffering from disease.

The prizes awarded to projects in the social and sporting domain were:

- 1st prize: €5,000. Graines de pilotes from EDHEC. The association will offer first flights to autistic children at the 2017 Student Air Rallye.
- 2nd prize: 3,000 €. Peace Boat Project from EDHEC. The goal of the project is to bring together young people from countries in conflict such as Israel and Palestine on the same boat at the EDHEC Cruise to deliver a message of peace;
- 3rd prize: 1,500 €. Sun is up from the LaSalle engineering school in Beauvais. At the 4L Trophy race, a team of engineers will transport school supplies and sports equipment to children in Morocco.

The prizes awarded to projects in the sustainable development domain were:

- 1st prize: €5,000. Mission Burkina from Kedge Business School Bordeaux. The association will create a supportive orchard in Burkina Faso and organize its operation

- 2nd prize: €3,000. Clean Water from Neoma Business School. The creation of a water-purifying filter to provide villagers in Sri Lanka with access to drinking water is at the heart of this initiative.
- 3rd prize: €1,500. Maroc'eau from IESEG. This prize will help complete the construction of a well that will provide a whole village with access to drinking water.

As the judges had an even harder time choosing the winners this year than in previous years, they decided to award a €1,500 Favorite prize to Parenthèse association from Kedge Business School Marseille for its day-to-day commitment with children from deprived neighborhoods in Marseilles.

Natixis is very keen on developing close ties with France's top business schools and universities and these awards testify to its willingness to take part in fostering tomorrow's talent. The projects submitted by the students reflect Natixis' community-minded commitment to society at large, both in France and abroad.
